

Associate Researcher, Oncological Sciences
Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai
Mount Sinai Health System Careers

Do you have what it takes to wear the badge?

Mount Sinai Health System's multidisciplinary clinical research teams are pioneering innovative new approaches in health care across a variety of fields. Working alongside leading physicians and within internationally acclaimed medical institutes, centers, and laboratories, our scientists continue to shape the future of clinical care and improve outcomes for patients of all ages.

Are you ready to discover the world of limitless possibilities that comes with wearing the badge? Explore more about this opportunity and how you can help us write a new chapter in our story of unrivaled patient care!

What You'll Do:

Highly motivated scientists who will be working as part of a multidisciplinary team, composed of Molecular Cancer and Computational biologists. Field of research is molecular oncology, specifically we will dissect the role of Methyltransferases in tumor initiation and maintenance.

What You'll Bring:

- Strong background in Molecular Biology, Epigenetic mechanisms of gene regulation, Genomics is appreciated.
- Must have a positive attitude towards team work, and be self-motivated and well organized.

Do you share our dedication to extraordinary service and have what it takes to wear the badge?
Apply now!

INFO: <https://careers.mountsinai.org/find-your-place/jobs/associate-researcher-oncological-sciences-new-york-ny-1>